J. P. Tenenbaum, Well-Known Atlanta Merchant, in Critical Condition at Hospital Here.

DOCTORS BELIEVE SKULL FRACTURED

Three Other Persons Brought to Hospitals. Two Struck From Bicycles by Automobiles.

J. P. Tenenbaum, of 228 Richardson street, well known Atlanta merchant, received a probably fractured skull and severe bruises and lacerations about the body when his sedan was struck early Tuesday night by an inbound A. B. & A. passenger train at the Marietta street and North avenue crossing.

The automobile was demolished and Tenenbaum narrowly escaped death. He was taken from the mass of wreckage and rushed to Davis-Fischer sanitarium in the private ambulance of Greenberg & Bond.

Did Not See Train.

According to Lieutenant W. M. Weaver, of the traffic department, Tenenbaum was driving north in North Avenue and drove on the tracks apparently not seeing the train.

He was badly cut about the face and chest by flying glass and also received severe lacerations on the arms. Doctors at the hospital fear that he suffered a fractured skull or brain concussion as he has an ugly scalp wound.

While it was at first feared that he would die, attending physicians reported late Tuesday night that he is expected to recover.

Three Are Injured.

Three persons were brought to Grady hospital Tuesday night suffering from injuries received in automobile accidents. Two of the victims were boys, who were riding bicycles.

Walter Dempsey, 34, of 106 West Alexander street, received a scalp wound when he was struck from his bicycle on Whitehall, near Hood street. He also was bruised about the arms and legs. He could not tell doctors the name of the driver of the machine that struck him.

Boland Goodloe, 16, of 276 Spring street, was knocked off his wheel Tuesday afternoon and was brought to Grady for treatment of slight injuries. Hospital attendants were not told where or how the accident occurred.

J. M. Baird, 68, of Center Hill, was treated for a laceration of the head received in an automobile accident. He did not state how the accident occurred.

Wilda Bennett Jilts Turfman Whom She Took From His Wife

ACTRESS WEDS ARGENTINE DANCE PARTNER

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, January 19.—Charles G. Frey, wealthy Kentucky turfman, known to his Broadway and race track intimates as Handsome Charlie, has been handed the most beautiful jilt that Broadway has encountered in some time.

For Wilda Bennett, Broadway actress, who recently lost a $37,500 suit for alienation of Frey's affections from his wife, went to Greenwich, Conn., late yesterday afternoon and married Peppe de Aldre, Argentine cabaret dancer, who of late was considered Frey's best friend.

Wilda announced her marital venture in a typical musical comedy star fashion. With Peppe on her arm, she glided into Texas Guinan's 300 club early this morning and shouted gaily:

"Up with those glasses, folks! Peppe and Wilda are married!"

The crowd cheered. The orchestra struck up the wedding march. Hands were clasped. Glasses were raised. And Wilda and her husband, smiling happily, stood in the middle of the dance floor and received the congratulations that showered upon them.

There was one man, however, who failed to whoop with joy. He was sitting at a ringside table and the whole thing must have been exceptionally clear to him. But he sat as if glued to his chair. It was Frey. And if ever a man appeared brokenhearted, it was the turfman at that moment.

THREE-CORNERED ROW OVER SHOALS WILL OPEN TODAY

Heflin, of Alabama, To Call Up House Resolution To Create Joint Congress Commission.

Washington, January 19.—(AP)—A three-cornered fight over Muscle Shoals will be started tomorrow when the issue is called before the senate agriculture committee.

Chafing under delayed action on the question, Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, notified the committee today that he would bring up tomorrow the house resolution which would create a joint congressional committee to accept bids. He told the republican members that President Coolidge, who favored the proposal, had requested a member of the committee to press for action on the measure.

Objection will be made to the Alabama senator's move by both Chairman Norris and Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, who have bills of their own dealing with Muscle Shoals.

Smith Opposes Heflin.

Senator Smith declared that the house resolution would mean only further delay, and that the issue would be buffeted back and forth between the senate and house during the entire session.

SPEAKERS SCORE HIGHWAY BOARD

Reynolds, Neel, Hollomon and Thompson Criticize Policies of Body At Road Dedication.

Newnan, Ga., January 19.—(Special.)—Scathing criticism of the state highway department and of the policies of the highway board linked with charges that policies are crippling the work of the organization was voiced here today in addresses of speakers at the dedication of the last link in the Newnan-Atlanta road. The "pay as you have" plan of the department was scored severely in the attacks.

The meeting was sponsored by the Cowetta County Agricultural association, the Newnan Kiwanis club and the Newnan Rotary club. The speakers attacked the state highway department and bitterly denounced its activities.

Frank T. Reynolds, president of the Georgia Road Men's association, opened the discussion of the proposed bond issue. It was continued by W. R. Neel, chief engineer of the state highway board; James A. Hollomon, of The Constitution, and Arthur Thompson, of LaGrange.

Reynolds Sarcastic.

Mr. Reynolds ridiculed the "pay as you have" plan, which he characterized as a good sounding slogan, but a plan that would not work. He stated that under that plan it would take 50 years to pave the roads of Georgia.

Mr. Neel said there have been many

COURT OPPONENTS MUSTER RESERVES

Pro-Court Leaders Decide to Withhold Cloture Attempt and Meet Earlier for Session Today.

Washington, January 19.—(Special.)—The heavy artillery of the senate irreconcilables was employed against the world court all day Tuesday to the entertainment of crowded galleries, while pro-court leaders on both sides, in cloak-room conference, were trying to decide how to bring about a vote this week.

Senator James A. Reed, Missouri, democrat, and Senator Hiram Johnson, California, republican, were the stars of a day that echoed the historic League of Nations debate. Only one attempt to answer the court opponents was made by Heflin, Alabama, democrat, in a brief speech. Pro-court leaders are convinced that the opposition is using its final reserves, and they do not want to stir up the irreconcilables now by talking at the issue.

Several polls have been taken on the cloture question, but they do not agree as to whether the necessary two-thirds is available to shut off debate.

Pro-court leaders decided late Tuesday to withhold a cloture attempt. Instead, the senate will meet an hour earlier Wednesday. By lengthening the working day, court leaders hope to wear down the talkers without resorting to force.

It is probable that the legitimate debate will be exhausted this week. The only difficulty is the announced determination of Cole Blaise, South Carolina, democrat, to talk as long

BICKERING ENDS AS HINDENBURG AND EUBANKS NAMED

Old Field Marshal Calls in Leaders and Tells Them Political Impasse Must Cease.

LUTHER QUICKLY FORMS CABINET

Berlin, January 19.—(AP)—President von Hindenburg, resuming the role of field marshal today, summoned the leaders of the reichstag parties to the executive mansion and, after demanding that all political bickering and controversies cease, plainly intimated that the choice lay between a dictatorship or parliamentary government.

Pettifogging politics, as exhibited in the German parliamentary crisis, roused the old soldier ire of von Hindenburg, and he determined to put an end to the political impasse which has left Germany without a duly authorized government for more than six weeks.

Gets Desired Effect.

The president's forceful language and unquestioned determination had the desired effect, for less than three hours after the political leaders had left his presence, Chancellor Luther was able to announce the roster of his new cabinet, which he will introduce in the reichstag Thursday.

"These sorry exhibitions of a perennial government crisis must cease," declared von Hindenburg. "The condition of the fatherland more than ever now demands constructive work."

The deputies listened to the presidential admonition with an outward display of decorum and were then escorted by Dr. Luther to the chancelleries, where a list of cabinet members was drafted and submitted with the request that it be ratified by 10 o'clock.

Luther's New Cabinet.

Eventually, the ministry was constituted as follows:

Chancellor—Dr. Hans Luther.

Foreign Minister—Gustav Stresemann.

Interior—Wilhelm Kuelz (democrat).

Finance—Peter Reinhold (democrat).

Economics—Julius Curtius (German people's party).

Labor—Heinrich Brauns (centrist).

Justice—Dr. Wilhelm Marx (centrist).

Defense—Dr. Otto Gessler (non-partisan).

Posts and Telegraphs—Karl Stiegl (Bavarian people's party).

Transport—Dr. R. Krohne (German people's party).

The portfolios of agriculture and occupied areas will be temporarily taken over by other members of the cabinet.

The new ministry has the parliamentary backing for the four middle parties, but does not command a working majority in the reichstag.

LOUISIANA AND NORTH CAROLINA MOST HEAVILY INFESTED BY COTTON PESTS

CROP IN GEORGIA IS NOT SO HEAVY

Washington, January 19.—(AP)—More cotton boll weevils are hibernating this winter than during any other year of record, with the exception of 1915, says a department of agriculture survey, and cotton-belt farmers are warned that unless unfavorable weather conditions for the weevils occur, a more severe infestation than usual may be expected next spring.

The statement declares that farmers should not conclude from the comparative immunity from weevils they have enjoyed for the past two years that this condition is likely to exist in 1926.

The department studies of weevil hibernation this year were made in Louisiana, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina. At Tallulah, La., where records have been kept since 1915, the number of live weevils found per ton of Spanish moss is 280. This compares with 16 in 1924.

In southern Louisiana the average figure is 1,581, which is characterized by the department as "enormously high." For North Carolina the average is 430. South Carolina and Georgia show lighter counts, respectively, 52 and 39.

These figures, the department says, do not mean that any such number of weevils will survive until summer, but they do give the first index to the number which may be in existence to start infestation in the spring.

TWO WOMEN KILLED BY TOO LARGE DOSE OF ANAESTHETICS

Los Angeles, Cal., January 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Evangeline Lane and Mrs. Anita Vasquez are dead and another woman is in a critical condition as a result of the administration of too great a quantity of a local anesthetic yesterday in the General hospital it was revealed today.

Attaches said the mistake was made by a hospital druggist. The coroner and the district attorney are investigating.

BAR BULL FIGHTING AT SPANISH FIESTA PLANNED IN TAMPA

Tampa, Fla., January 19.—(AP)—A fiesta will be staged here probably Friday night by thousands of members of the Spanish colony, it was announced today. Officials say it will be called "Una Noche en Sevilla" or "One Night in Sevilla."

One of the features of the fiesta will be the appearance of Raphael Gomez, hailed in Spain as the rooster of the bull fight arena, and Francisco Perez Rivera, Spanish bull fighter.

But Gomez and Rivera will appear without their 30 "wild" bulls imported from Mexico, it was said.

Officials emphasized that the fiesta program does not call for a bullfight. The appearance of the bull fighters is to simply lend color to the affair, they added.

Boat Stops In Mid-Ocean To Shift Body

Mother Braves Heavy Sea To Take Son's Corpse Back To Homeland.

New York, January 19.—(AP)—The midnight transfer at sea of a mother and her dead son from the liner Southern Cross to the liner Pan-America, caused the former ship to dock several hours late today.

Marino De Conde, 9-year-old son of Mme. Conde, who was coming to New York to be correspondent for La Nacion, a newspaper of Rio de Janeiro, insisted that she be landed or transferred to a ship which would take her back to her home.

Captain J. G. Fels consented, and a wireless communication was established with the Pan-America. As the two ships drew near each other and a boat was lowered from the Southern Cross, Mme. Conde crouched in the bottom, hugging the small black box, the coffin which contained her son.

Silently she was rowed through the night, and strong arms helped her aboard the Pan-America. The transfer took four hours. A toot of whistles and the liners vanished into the night.

YOUTH AND AGE PAY HOMAGE TO LEE AND JACKSON

School Children and Veterans Join in Celebration at Capitol; Judge Frank Jenkins Orator.

Marking the 119th anniversary of the birth of General Robert E. Lee, appropriate exercises, directed by the Atlanta and Fulton chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy and the "Stonewall" Jackson camp, some 150 of the United Confederate Veterans, were held Tuesday afternoon in the hall of the house of representatives at the state capitol.

The celebration was of dual character, honoring also the memory of General Stonewall Jackson, whose birthday anniversary falls on January 21, just two days later than that of his beloved chieftain.

Judge W. Frank Jenkins, of the Georgia court of appeals, was the orator of the occasion, delivering a speech of magnificent inspiration to the audience which filled the house to capacity. There were a large number of children from the Atlanta schools present, and, with the white-haired remnants of the gray legions which followed Lee and Jackson to immortal fame on the battlefields of the Georgia court of appeals, was the orator of the occasion, delivering a speech of magnificent inspiration to the audience which filled the house to capacity.

VALENTINO'S MATE IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Famous "Natacha Rambova" Is Granted Decree On Grounds of Abandonment by Sheik Husband.

Paris, January 19.—(AP)—The Seine tribunal of three judges today gave Winifred Hudnut a divorce from Rudolph Guglielmo, known to screen fans as Rudolph Valentino. Desertion formed the ground for the decree.

The court held that Winifred was legally domiciled in Indiana, retaining her American citizenship despite the fact that she had married an Italian, because the marriage occurred a year after the passage of the Cable act, which permits American women to retain their citizenship even if they marries a foreigner.

Rudolph's attorney admitted that the sheik had not lived with his wife, nor supported her, for some time, and when the judges made the customary plea for reconciliation the lawyer, on behalf of Rudolph, said that the latter was determined never again to live with her, having already refused several times to resume his conjugal relations.

Winifred's lawyer said that for more than two years Rudolph had failed to provide funds for his wife's living expenses. Valentino's lawyer replied that she made almost as large a salary as the sheik himself, and preferred to live her own life, meeting her own expenses.

The court ordered the decree granted, but it will be several weeks before this is actually done, due to the necessary procedure of the court.

The news of the granting of the divorce was the subject of a sensational campaign, he said, was to raise funds to finance the other groups of sculptors and the Memorial hall.

COIN SALE PLEA MADE BY NAPIER

Columbia, S. C., January 19.—(AP)—Attorney General George M. Napier, of Georgia, addressing a special session of the South Carolina legislature here tonight, told the legislators of the Stone Mountain memorial and the Confederate Memorial half-dollar.

The session, called in honor of the birthday of General Robert E. Lee, set a high mark in the campaign to sell South Carolina's quota of the coins, conducted under the direction of Governor Thomas G. McLeod.

Mr. Napier described the memorial coin as a decoration of valor conferred upon every Confederate soldier, living or dead, by the generous act of a government against whom they once were in arms.

"The coins, he declared, are, in effect, a retraction of the charge of treason put upon the soldiers of the Confederacy and a restoration after death of the citizenship of those who died outside of citizenship."

"For the south to show herself indifferent to these coins would bring everlasting reproach upon the good name of her people," said Mr. Napier. "Others would be justified in saying that our professions of reverence for the memory of those soldiers who gave us a heritage of valor unsurpassed in history are a sham and a pretense."

He said he had been officially advised that the association now had either cash in hand or good pledges for an amount sufficient to insure the completion of the central group of the memorial. The object of the coin sale campaign, he said, was to raise funds to finance the other groups of sculptors and the Memorial hall.

SHEET STEEL MEN MEET IN ATLANTA

With approximately forty dealers, jobbers, contractors and salesmen of the Atlanta territory present the sheet steel trade extension committee, of Pittsburgh, held a conference at the Biltmore hotel Tuesday. The meeting was one of a series which the organization holds in the larger cities of the country each year, and is for the purpose of familiarizing the trade in the many uses of sheet steel and educating the public in its beauty when used structurally.

C. L. Patterson, of Pittsburgh, secretary of the committee, presided over the meeting and made the opening speech at the morning session. Other members of the committee who were present spoke in the forenoon expressing their views on the subject generally. These included Murray Springer, of Chicago, director of trade development; George E. Bennett, of Pittsburgh, director of trade extension; Harry S. Rogers, of Pittsburgh, special representative; and J. J. Rockwell, president of "Crosby," the advertising agency, of Chicago.

"Our purpose is to foster harmonious relations between the sheet steel mills and the jobbers, contractors and salesmen, and to bring the latest achievement of the technical research bureau before the public, and to develop trade," said Mr. Rogers Tuesday afternoon.

The afternoon was devoted to a round table discussion of the problems of the trade, following a luncheon in the Biltmore grill at 1 o'clock. There was no set program for the meeting and no formal action was taken or resolutions adopted.

The committee came to Atlanta from Louisville, Ky., where a similar meeting has just been held and from here go to Philadelphia for another gathering. Meetings have also been held in Milwaukee and Kansas City and still others scheduled are to be held in Boston, Detroit and Columbus, Ohio.

The Florida Airways corporation submitted a bid to the United States postoffice department at Washington Monday to carry mail on the Atlanta-

Child Prodigy Shows Broad Versatility at Tender Age

Little Miss Esther Byrnes, six-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Byrnes, who reads French, sings in Italian and does other things unusual in a child of such tender age.

Atlanta's latest child prodigy is Little Miss Esther Byrnes, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Byrnes, of 627 Ponce de Leon avenue. Although she has seen but six summers, she is ten years old mentally, according to her teachers.

"Esther is the most remarkable human being I have ever handled during my career as a teacher," stated Mrs. M. J. Van Hook, of the Van Hook School of Fine Arts, where the little girl is in the fourth grade. She already is three years ahead of most children of her age, thus bearing out findings of the Binet-Simon test as to her mentality.

She is a French scholar, according to Mrs. Van Hook, a singer of songs in Italian, a pianist of no mean ability, a classical dancer, a proficient reader in English, can add, subtract, multiply, divide, and "juggle" fractions with great dexterity, and can already "stump" her parents with certain questions in geography and other branches of knowledge.

Not only is Esther a mental marvel, at least four years ahead of her class, but she also is the possessor of a physique which has been pronounced 99 per cent perfect, having been awarded a prize in a "perfect baby" contest when she was quite small.

Esther entered the Van Hook kindergarten two years ago and her teachers soon became aware of her extraordinary genius, with the result that she was given much individual attention. Mrs. Van Hook declares that the precocious youngster could advance in her studies as fast as permitted.

Despite her extraordinary ability, says Mrs. Byrnes, whose husband is executive dean of the Atlanta Southern Dental college, Esther is in her home life like any ordinary child, being interested in dolls and other things which absorb any little girl of her age.

3 SHRINE EVENTS KEEP NOBLES BUSY

Nobles of Yaarab temple have been compelled to keep their fingers handy for quick use this week, on account of three Shrine events coming in rapid succession—the annual anniversary dinner of the chapters, a grand ball at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, and the annual business meeting for the election of officers.

The chapters were organized January 19, 1918, and the dinner held Tuesday evening was therefore the tenth anniversary of this nationally-known male chorus. Frank A. Cundell, who organized and has been the sole director of Yaarab chapters for ten years, was elected president of the organization, and will continue as director.

Speakers at the dinner were Charles A. Bowen, potentate; Walter P. Andrews and W. Bayne Gibson, past potentates; Thomas C. Law, R. D. Bame, DeWald Cohen and others, who brought out some of the achievements of Yaarab chapters under the direction of Frank Cundell. Yaarab chapters at meetings of the imperial council throughout the United States have been in constant demand for concerts on the programs, both official and public. At the session in San Francisco Yaarab chapters were selected as the imperial potentate's own band of chanters. Official and public concerts have been given in all of the leading cities of the country.

Sang for Charity. Director Frank Cundell, under the approval of the potentate of Yaarab temple, has presented the chapters in many concerts in Atlanta, the proceeds being applied to charity from year to year. Since these public appearances were instituted three years ago, approximately $3,000 has been distributed among Atlanta's worthy relief institutions by this organization.

The officers elected for 1926 were Frank A. Cundell, president and di-

SEABOARD IS SUED FOR $15,000 DAMAGES

Suit for $15,000 damages was filed Tuesday in Fulton superior court by Columbus Brown, employee at the Terminal station, against the Seaboard Air Line Railway company and the American Railway Express company.

Brown asked damages for injuries alleged to have been received on December 7 when he was struck by a small freight truck which had been given momentum when an engine of the defendant company struck it. The accident occurred at the Terminal station.

Director: Ed Bray, secretary: Clyde Withers, treasurer: C. V. Logan and Thomas A. Martin, traffickers; E. T. Booth, draper; George Beck and Harry T. Adams, membership committee; W. A. Aichel and Roy Petty, accountants.

Arrangements now in the hands of Yaarab temple's representatives and the Philadelphia committee indicate that Yaarab's chapters will be placed on the official program for several appearances at the great sequentennial session of the imperial council to be held in Philadelphia in June of this year.

The dance held at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel Tuesday evening was one of the series of formal balls given under the auspices of the dance committee of Yaarab temple, and was attended by more than 150 nobles and their friends.

Business Meeting Tonight. No ceremonial session will be held in connection with the annual business meeting tonight at the auditorium. The retirement of Potentate Charles A. Bowen, after the customary two years in office, necessitates the election of a complete new divan, and while several of the old officers will be re-elected, the evening will be completely filled with business, as reports of committees and officers will be made and four representatives to the imperial council elected.

The meeting will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock, and nobles are reminded that they cannot gain admission without the 1925 Shrine card.

Pyorrhea is the dread disease of the gums which is responsible often for loss of teeth, rheumatism, neuritis and other dangerous disorders.

It starts with tender bleeding gums. Pockets form below the teeth and poisons spread relentlessly through the body. If you have pyorrhea or any of its symptoms see your dentist at once and start brushing your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums.

To safeguard yourself against pyorrhea make Forhan's your regular dentifrice. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. # CLOSED-CAR WEEK EXHIBITIONS DRAW BIG CROWDS TO SHOWROOMS OF ALL LOCAL AUTOMOBILE DEALERS

Atlantans and Visitors Voice Approval of Local Auto Dealers' Exhibits

New Models, New Finishes and Latest Models In Closed-Car Hardware and Trimmings Please Show Visitors.

Atlantans and visitors from nearby towns thronged local automobile dealers' establishments Tuesday in even greater numbers than on the first day of closed-car week.

Interest in Atlanta's most complete showing of closed automobiles is growing every hour, if the number of visitors at the local exhibits can be taken as a criterion.

Through Monday the number of visitors increased until closing time in the evening and began with a fresh rush Tuesday morning, gaining strength in numbers until evening, when the largest crowds of the week were inspecting the latest offerings of the master coach workers of the world.

That the coach building art is progressing to the liking of the American public was quite evident to anyone who listened to comments of showroom visitors.

Refinements Catch Eye.

Everywhere they pointed out minute refinements in the design of the new bodies, as well as in the finish and the trimmings, of which American-built cars are justly proud. It was seldom, indeed, that these improvements escaped the eye of the buyer. Salesmen on the floor during the day commented freely upon this feature of the show.

"Never before have I worked in a show booth when so much actual knowledge of automobiles was displayed by visitors, and never before have I found all visitors to be so keenly interested."

"There were no idle questions and no curiosity seekers among the visitors at our showroom," said one wide-awake salesman. "They were all interested in seeing the latest offerings of our factory, and they were quick to point out the refinements of the new models. Not once have I found it necessary to point out these improvements, but I did notice a most intelligent questioning of the salesmen about the mechanical and hidden improvements," continued this veteran of automobile row.

The combined exhibits of Atlanta dealers offer not only a glimpse of the newest in automobile styles and construction, but they offer an opportunity to become acquainted with the value and merit of each particular line, and to compare it with those of other makes.

Educational Features.

In the words of one of the leading local dealers the educational value of the show is of no mean importance, and should the prospective buyer devote an evening or several evenings to a careful inspection and study of the different makes and the various types of bodies offered by each maker, it would likely mean a saving in money on the purchase of a new car, and would certainly mean the probability of getting the exact type of body most suited to the particular needs and fancy of the purchaser.

There are more than thirty different makes of cars being offered by the local dealers, and of these a number of makers offer two or more distinct chassis, bringing the actual number of cars to about forty. Each make offers from 4 to as many as 25 different models. A careful study of these different cars, their prices and merits is proving of unusual interest to show week visitors.

Every Atlanta dealer organization is holding open house through the remainder of closed-car week, which ends Saturday evening January 23. They have extended to owners and friends a cordial invitation to visit their exhibits or make a call on any member of their organization during the week.

Dealers realize the advantages of being personally acquainted with the owners of their cars, and will be pleased to have owners get acquainted with their organization, and to inspect their facilities for serving them.

FORMER CONVICT IN PRISON HERE ENDS HIS LIFE

John Francis Beckwith, former inmate of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, committed suicide at his home in Troy, N. Y., Tuesday, by hanging himself in a closet of the home, according to Associated Press dispatches received in Atlanta.

Beckwith was admitted to the federal penitentiary November 21, 1917, and was paroled, October 20, 1925, according to Warden John W. Smook. He was charged with misuse of the mails.

While in the prison here, Beckwith was assigned to the honor farm and employed his spare time in taxidermy, stuffing a large number of animals. His work was exhibited at the Southeastern fair last year and later was purchased by the city of Atlanta.

Several manuscripts were found in his rooms in Troy for submission to publishers, it is stated. Beckwith went to Troy last November and was understood to have come from Miami, Fla. He was about 50 years of age.

Frank A. Chase, of Kansas City, managing trustee of the American Savings and Loan association, an authority on building and loan organizations, delivered the principal address at the first annual meeting of the Georgia Building and Loan league held Tuesday at the Biltmore hotel.

Mr. Chase outlined the latest ideas in conducting these associations which bring the most benefit to the associations as well as to the clients.

The league was organized one year ago and several cities sent representatives to the session Tuesday. The directors voted to conduct an educational campaign in Georgia to broaden the scope of the league and to promote organization of building and loan associations.

George West, of Atlanta, was re-elected president of the league. Mr. West was one of the original promoters of the organization. Horace Russell, of Atlanta, was elected secretary and treasurer. J. W. Vaughn, of Cartersville, and L. M. Shahan, Jr., of Rome, were elected vice presidents.

POSSESSION OF JOB GETS LENIENCY FOR BOOTLEGGER

Bootleggers in Atlanta today think their offenses are jokes according to Judge Samuel H. Sibley who made Atlanta, who was arraigned before him this statement to Tom Hardin, of Atlanta on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Judge Sibley sentenced Hardin to a year and a day in the federal prison and then suspended the sentence, placing Hardin under probation.

Hardin told the judge he was forced to sell whisky to get money to pay a fine of $70 imposed on him in February, 1925, by Judge Robert T. Ervin. Hardin said he borrowed the money to pay that fine and that his creditor forced him to sell liquor to get the money to pay the debt.

Fred T. Dismukes, former state prohibition enforcement officer, now district officer stationed at Savannah, testified in behalf of Hardin, saying he believed Hardin wanted to "go straight."

Evidence also was introduced showing Hardin had been working steadily on a job here since his conviction last February.

Police were notified but efforts to find the body have been futile so far.

HEAVY PENALTIES GIVEN BY JUDGES IN LIQUOR CASES

Howard, of Fulton superior court, fined him $500 and gave him a twelve-months' suspended sentence. He is alleged to have had in his possession two and a half quarts of corn liquor.

I. Favors, Tuesday entered a plea of guilty in city criminal court to a charge of violating the prohibition law, and was fined $250 and given a twelve-months' sentence, the sentence to be suspended on payment of the fine.

He is alleged to have had 38 gallons of corn liquor in his possession September 26 when captured by County Officers Lieutenant Carroll and Atkinson on Simpson road. This was his first offense, it was stated.

The real estate activities, increase in postal receipts and the increase in business generally proves the steady growth of the town and the desirability of Sylvester as a home town.

The Sylvester postoffice experienced the best holiday business in its history from a standpoint of receipts and the volume of mail matter.

9 NEW SMALLPOX CASES IN TAMPA

Tampa, Fla., January 19.—(AP)—Nine new cases of smallpox were reported here today, the health department announced. The total number of known cases now is 90, health authorities said.

"Under the circumstances we can only hope to check further spread of smallpox by making even more strenuous efforts at wholesale vaccination," Dr. Levy, city health officer, notified all physicians in Tampa today.

"We are far from being out of the woods," Dr. Levy said. "Our cases are scattered and it is absolutely impossible to conduct really efficient quarantine, which should include the isolation of all exposed persons not previously vaccinated," he said.

Two thousand persons are being vaccinated here each day, the health officer said. He appealed to retail and wholesale stores today to have their employees vaccinated.

Forty-five per cent of Tampa's population, estimated at 150,000, has been vaccinated, the official added.

A clinic has been established along the waterfront.

CITY BOND ISSUE PLANS ASSAILED

fore the people and pass a $5,000,000 or $8,000,000 bond issue for schools. But if you have to tack on the bonds, the bonds will lose. Here's the proposition: Atlanta people have the interests of the children at heart and will vote for school bonds. But they are not going to vote for a new city hall in connection with school bonds. Let council present to the people bonds for any purposes it wishes and let the school board carry its fight individually. Let's fight our own battles. Let's refuse to trade with council by agreeing to carry viaducts and city hall bonds in exchange for a paltry $2,000,000 for schools. There's too much tonnage in this bond issue proposed by the council finance committee, and the people won't stand for it."

Suggests Special Tax.

Commissioner Hoffman after approving the stand taken by his colleagues on the school bond issue suggested that the board go before the people to ask for a special school tax, if necessary, to make the pressing improvements declared by board members and administrative officers to be imperative. Commissioner Mills again took the floor declaring that "if council can figure out a $5,000,000 bond issue without raising taxes why can't the board of education get a major portion of the amount?"

"The finance committee did not call upon Superintendent Sutton or members of this board to outline the needs of the schools," he continued. "Not 10 cents worth of these bonds can be carried without our support. I for one will oppose passage of the bond issue in the shape it has been presented."

'Red Tape' Hurts U. S. Efficiency, Declares Hagood

"The war department is somewhat top-heavy and elimination of 'red tape' would increase our military efficiency," said Major General Johnson Hagood, in addressing the monthly meeting of the Association of the Army of the United States Tuesday night at the Kimball House.

After a few brief remarks of welcome by the president of the association, Captain Roy LeCraw, a talk on the training program of Atlanta's national guard was given by Lieutenant Colonel James M. Kimbrough, who is affectionately known as "the father of the national guard." He stressed the value of the fundamentals of training, declaring that the 15 days of summer camp training had proved more effective than the one and a half hour of armory drill held each week. He said that, in view of their proven ineffectiveness, armories should be dispensed with, thus saving the federal government a large expenditure.

General Hagood Speaks.

The next speaker, Major General Hagood, who was largely responsible for the drafting of the national defense act, dwelt on the value of the various service men and national guard organizations. Their existence, he said, in his opinion would prevent the confusion caused by the outbreak of the world war by facilitating orderly mobilization of troops for active service. He also emphasized the vast importance of the service of supplies, in which branch General Hagood served with distinction during the late war, pointing to the fact that such famous strategists as Napoleon, Forrest and "Stonewall" Jackson won their battles by getting their first with the "most men and supplies."

"Our military methods during the world war were utterly inefficient," he said, and declared that it took a great deal of individual initiative to bring some sort of order out of chaos. He declared the prediction made by Major General Leonard Wood in 1911 to the effect that it would take America at least a year to produce sufficient ammunition for its armies, more than came true. "Up to the signing of the armistice, not a single shot had been fired by American artillery with American ammunition by American gunners, with the exception of the shots fired by our navy."

Urges Direct Methods.

"The trouble with our war department," declared General Hagood, "is that it is somewhat top-heavy. I believe that more direct methods and elimination of some of its 'red tape' would greatly increase our military efficiency and speed up operations." The speaker then criticized the indomitable spirit of the United States army which, with very little practical training and in spite of lack of proper organization, had covered itself with everlasting glory, he said. He also stated as his belief that, conservatively speaking, this country would mobilize an army of 10,000,000 men in the event of another war.

An interesting talk on the potentialities of chemical warfare was given by Captain Edmund G. Steis, chemical warfare officer of the fourth corps area. He emphasized the usefulness of the various forms of poison gas in peace time as well as in war. The picture was illustrated and the meeting closed with an inspection of a number of protective contrivances, consisting for the greater part of old and modern gas masks, which were on exhibition through the cooperation of fourth corps area headquarters.

HIGHWAY BOARD HIT IN SPEECHES

misstatements in the press and on the platform regarding the amount of money the state has from all sources for road construction. He declared that including 25 per cent for counties and the federal aid funds there was less than $6,000,000 available each year.

He advocated the creation of a fund to be expended by the state highway department without participation by the counties. By that means only, he said, could the main arteries be linked up into complete through highways.

Hollomon Speaks.

Mr. Hollomon laid failure to accomplish more to mismanagement of the highway department, but he complimented Mr. Neal highly, blaming politics in the highway department for failure of the latter to build roads as they should be built. He advocated a bond issue, and recommended a bond commission consisting of one man from each district to supervise the expenditure of the funds derived from the sale of the bonds. He declared the building of roads should be taken out of politics, and that the highway department should go outside of the state to get a road builder competent to build roads as they should be built.

Mr. Thompson in a scathing attack denounced the lack of system in highway matters, severely criticized the expenditure of funds for roads. He cited figures from the reports of the state highway department and the state auditor showing that nearly as much money was spent in supervision as in actual construction.

He produced figures to prove that in 1926 and 1927 the state would have $20,000,000 of money raised by tax on gas and oil, and from the motor vehicle tax.

Redwine Presides.

The meeting was presided over by B. L. Redwine.

R. O. Jones, mayor of Newnan, welcomed the visitors. He announced that last week a new cotton mill had been organized by local capital, and would soon be built; that the Newnan hosiery mill was enlarging its plant, and that the McIntosh mill was increasing its capacity. All of these are owned by local capital.

Dr. C. W. Durden spoke a few words of welcome in behalf of the Rotary and Kiwanis and Masonic clubs. These organizations entertained visitors with a barbecue at noon.

Included in the bill is a provision for an additional assistant secretary of war to supervise military aviation.

4.—In accord with another recommendation of the Morrow board, Secretary Davis ordered the creation of an air section in each division of the army general staff.

The debate on the naval appropriation bill developed considerable opposition to the item appropriating $300,000 for the experimental production of a metal-clad airship by the Detroit aircraft concern organized by Carl B. Fritzsche, Representative French, republican of Idaho, in charge of the bill for the appropriations committee. Fritzsche found himself the target of objection that the ship had not been authorized and that the navy department does not want it built.

senator Britten, republican of Illinois, "that the assistant secretary of the navy visited your committee and told you the secretary of the navy doesn't want this tin lizzie?"

"That is not true," responded Mr. French, "but it is a fact that the navy department did not ask for the ship. Officers of the bureau of aeronautics, however, thought it worth while to experiment in the building of a metal-clad airship."

Chief of these economies proposed is a reduction of $1,750,000 in the allowance for fuel, which will necessitate considerably less steaming by our fleet in the fiscal year of 1927. It will be necessary to withdraw ships from active service and to limit the scope of practice maneuvers, an effort to get along with less fuel.

Compares British U. S. Fleets.

"We do not propose," said Mr. French, in opening the debate, "to recommend what types shall be withdrawn from the service, but it is very clear that the United States is maintaining more battleships, more destroyers and more submarines of the essential types of ships in excess of the number maintained by Great Britain. Great Britain has in commission more cruisers that have we, but when all of the essential ships are considered, the United States at present is following a course far more liberal than is Great Britain. Great Britain under the treaty has 18 battleships and four battle cruisers. One of each is undergoing repairs, leaving 20 that are fit for active commission. But, instead of maintaining the 20 in active service, Great Britain is effecting economies by maintaining in the service in active commission 13 battleships and two battle cruisers. The United States is maintaining 103 destroyers in active commission and Great Britain only 51. The United States is maintaining 83 submarines in full commission as against 46 for Great Britain. By effecting a small reduction in the number of ships to be maintained in full commission in 1927, the United States can effect a saving in fuel, in engineering, construction and repair and in cost of personnel that will aggregate $3,500,000 and at the same time we can find within the naval establishment as it is today officers and men to equip the aircraft carriers, Saratoga and Lexington, that will be placed in commission in about one year from now."

In reply to a question, Mr. French admitted that, compared with ours, Japan has a larger personnel that conforms to the 5-3 ratio, but he said that is due to no consideration involving the United States, but to Japan's necessity of preparedness to cope with turbulent conditions on the Asiatic mainland.

Cherbourg, France, January 19.—(AP)—Rudolph Valentino made only one comment when he was informed by the Associated Press correspondent that a divorce had been pronounced against him—"That closes a chapter of my life; it only remains to turn the page and begin anew."

Valentino was quite unperturbed; not a muscle of his face, so expressive before the lens, stirred. If he felt any emotion at the news he successfully concealed it.

He allowed the subject to drop with the remark:

"I was expecting a telegram, but you are ahead. You are the first to bring the news."

He then spoke of his work, which appeared to be his principal interest, discussing his future film plays and saying how eager he was to get home to resume picture making.

Suggestions that Coolidge publicly urge a vote are not favorably received by republican leaders in the senate. They want to keep the president out of it, fearing that a public interference by him in behalf of the court would embarrass the democrats upon whom the administration relies to get the court through.

Some pro-court senators have been embarrassed by letters from Klansmen condemning the court. Republican leaders in the senate have advised their colleagues to answer all such letters in a friendly vein, explaining the reservations designed to protect American interests. Senators who have tried this have found the reaction favorable, many constituents replying that they had not known that the reservations provided and that they are willing to enter the court with them.

In debate Heflin lamented that court opponents ridiculed the petitions children are sending in for the court.

LAND LAWS OF MEXICO HELD NON-RETROACTIVE

Washington, January 19.—The new Mexican laws designed to make effective article 27 of the constitution are not retroactive and confiscatory, and foreigners are not required to waive their nationality to acquire property, according to an explanatory statement by the Mexican secretary of foreign affairs and issued through the embassy here.

This statement was made by Secretary Saenz in response to recent complaints by the American state department regarding the new Mexican laws, which were understood here to apply article 27 retroactively in a way that would deprive Americans of mineral and ore rights previously acquired.

"The organic law in question is not retroactive," says the Mexican secretary. Denying that the laws are confiscatory, the Mexican statement says that when a foreigner is unable to comply with the law regarding alien ownership, ample time is allowed for transfer and only in event this time limit is overstepped, is a public sale ordered, the proceeds of which go to the alien owner.

Under the constitution, foreigners are forbidden to acquire mineral or oil lands, but by permission of the government and upon agreement to submit to Mexican laws and not claim special privileges as foreigners, aliens may acquire domain rights.

In some places, the Mexican statement was blunt.

"If a government—and this is not a question open to discussion," the statement said, "has the power to prevent foreigners from acquiring property of specified kinds within its territory, with greater reason it may impose conditions for such acquisition."

Eubanks Explains Vote.

"During most of the balloting over the selection of a president of this body I have refrained from voting," said Dr. Eubanks. "The rules of this board require that a majority, or seven votes, is necessary to elect. It has come to the point that six votes have been cast for me; four for Mr. Gaines and one for Mr. Therrill, who has announced his retirement from the race. I have approached the candidate who had persistently voted for Mr. Therrill in the face of his retirement and asked that he give me five votes."

complimentary vote. This he has failed to do. In view of this situation I will resort to a painful duty of casting my ballot in favor of myself." Dr. Eubanks immediately was declared the new president by Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson, the president-elect, who made a short talk regarding harmony and a spirit of cooperation.

James W. Maddox, commissioner from the fifth, took the floor to say:

DR. R. M. EUBANKS.

"Dr. Eubanks has done one of the most patriotic things possible to end all this wrangling in the board."

Mrs. Nelson was unanimously elected first vice president, from nomination by Commissioner Gaines.

C. J. McLendon, of the tenth ward, was unanimously elected second vice president. Henry Kennedy, of the Fulton National bank, was re-elected treasurer and a majority of the board members praised her work in explaining their desire to be recorded as voting in favor of her reelection.

Editorial Praised.

The Constitution's editorial of last Sunday calling on the board of education to resign if it failed to elect a president after the adjourned session Tuesday afternoon came in for strong praise from Commissioner Hoffman during the course of his talk explaining his position in casting his vote for Dr. Eubanks.

"I have absolutely no preference for any number of this board and my only desire is to see a board of education president elected so we can save all this waste of time in getting started," said Mr. Hoffman.

Exhibiting a copy of the editorial in last Sunday's Constitution, Mr. Hoffman said:

"The editorial in last Sunday's Constitution was right. He quoted the following extract from the editorial:

"If after the next meeting, it develops that this board has done nothing further than wrangle, every member of it should resign in order that a new board might be chosen, thus relieving the school board of the embarrassment of being operated under the adverse conditions created by a board which seems to think more of itself than it does of the schools."

Ready to Resign.

During the course of his talk, quoting the Constitution's editorial, Mr. Hoffman said that he was "perfectly willing and ready to resign at this time." Reiterating his opinion that the Constitution's editorial was right, Mr. Hoffman added: "I am ready right now to quit rather than to see the board embroiled in this petty bickering and wrangling."

"I am frank to say I haven't heard a good word said about a member of this board. We're not liked even by the persons who elected us. Certainly not liked by the people."

Exhibiting a copy of the editorial, I voted for Mr. Therrill before. He has now withdrawn from the race.

"I have understood a certain candidate has been making a promise, promising his backers chairmanships, important committee assignments. I think this is absolutely wrong and I would not support any one who did this. I have asked this candidate and his friends if this was true. They have absolutely denied making such promises. With this assurance I am prepared to cast my ballot for Dr. Eubanks and desire to be so recorded. This I am doing in order to see the curtailment of petty bickering and strife which seems to have been instilled in the board of education this early in the year of its inauguration."

Eubanks Denies Promises.

Commissioner Eubanks, taking the floor on the point of personal privilege, denied that he had made any promises whatsoever. "I have made no promises or pledges," he said. "It is my sincere purpose to lead my efforts toward providing for the welfare of the children of this city. I pledge you ladies and gentlemen my best services."

Prior to resumption of balloting at the Tuesday session of the board, D. M. Therrill, who had been placed in nomination for president at the organization meeting, made a statement announcing that he could not be a candidate because of the pressure of business obligations. This, he said, was not to be construed in any way as any unwillingness on his part to serve the schools. "The present controversy over the presidency of the board and its future policies has developed political angles and issues which lead where I cannot follow. I, therefore, in all earnestness and sincerity ask that my name be no longer considered and further state that I could not accept even if elected."

Mills Nominated.

James W. Maddox, commissioner from the fifth, placed the name of Oscar Mills, of the ninth, in nomination for the post of second vice president of the board, but Mr. Mills declined with thanks. Commissioner W. C. Slate, of the second, then nominated Mr. Therrill, who likewise declined at the same time giving thanks. It was then that Commissioner Morris, of the first, nominated Mr. McLendon and his election was unanimous.

Prior to the resumption of balloting Commissioner Mills made an unsuccessful effort to declare the balloting ended after 10 more votes and acclaim Mrs. Nelson acting president of the board, as president in event of failure of a majority vote for any candidate within that time. This motion was defeated, 7 to 5.

Dunning Chosen Dry 'Coordinator' Over Four States

Washington, January 19.—(AP)—In order to develop closer liaison between coast guard customs and the prohibition forces in enforcing the Volstead act in the south Atlantic states, Assistant Secretary Andrews has in effect molded the three agencies into one unit and has appointed M. O. Dunning, customs collector at Savannah, as coordinator for prohibition in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

The changes, disclosed Tuesday, place Mr. Dunning in a supervisory capacity over all of Mr. Andrews' forces in the four states mentioned. The move is regarded as representing the first step in a plan for tightening up enforcement in the southeast, where the assistant secretary saw evidence of considerable violation of the liquor laws on his recent inspection trip through that section.

During the holidays Mr. Andrews visited the four states mentioned, conferring with all executive officers under his jurisdiction. Mr. Dunning accompanied the treasury official on the tour, and is held to be equipped at the outset with a full knowledge of conditions.

In placing the executive of the three units in the four states under one jurisdictional control, Mr. Andrews gave evidence of a desire to expand further the idea he had from the outset of his work at the treasury—compelling assumption of authority and responsibility by supervising agents as near as possible to the problem with which they have to deal.

That was the thought behind the division of the country into districts along lines of federal court jurisdiction. With respect to the court districts, however, Mr. Andrews believed that the divisions he worked out would aid in eliminating some political influence in the selection of enforcement officers.

The political question, however, was said not to have interfered in attempts to enforce the law in the south Atlantic states, and Mr. Andrews moved, therefore, to work out on experimental lines a scheme that may be applied later in other sections, although the assistant secretary said he had not decided on its use elsewhere at this time.

There was little comment other than that mentioned with respect to the arrangement now to become effective in the south Atlantic states. Mr. Andrews was not pleased with conditions in some sections of the states visited and he so informed officials of the areas with whom he conferred. He was unable during his trip, however, to decide in his own mind upon methods for correcting the situation.

OVER 15 BILLIONS OF NEW INSURANCE WRITTEN IN 1925

New York, January 19.—(AP)—New life insurance in the United States during the last year totaled $15,600,000,000, exceeding the previous high record of 1924 of $14,600,000,000, according to an estimate forwarded today to the department of commerce by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

The association includes 45 leading insurance companies, which have in force 81 per cent of the $72,000,000,000 coverage now in force in all United States legal reserve companies. The combined new insurance of these 45 companies amounted to $10,927,000,000, as compared with $9,109,000,000 in 1924.

tion session without action. He has prepared a bill which he said would bring immediate activities at Muscle Shoals that would benefit the farmers, the users of power and the nation as a whole.

Senator Norris, although still favoring his government operation power bill, is not inclined to oppose the Smith measure, which he has described as a compromise between the opposing factions. He reiterated his desire to have the Muscle Shoals question disposed of at this session.

The third corner of the triangle is presented by Senator Underwood, democrat of Alabama, who so far has declined to show his hand. At the last session he was opposed to all three of the pending propositions and put forward a bill authorizing the president to lease Muscle Shoals. It is probable that he will offer a substitute proposal when the issue reaches the senate.

What Smith Proposes.

The Smith bill would turn Muscle Shoals over to the secretaries of war and agriculture for experimentation on a huge scale into processes for a conversion of nitrogen for munitions and fertilizer. The finished product would be sold to the farmers without profit.

Muscle Shoals was dedicated to the national defense when the government first started the development of the property 10 years ago, he said, and there is no reason to change the program now.

The United States, he continued, is at the mercy of foreign governments when it comes to munitions for national defense and for fertilizer to restore farm lands. It is now time that nitrogen was produced in this country and Muscle Shoals offers the best opportunity, he said. Power development, he continued is secondary at Muscle Shoals, and it is up to the government to demonstrate the best process for obtaining nitrogen. The property should not be let out to private interest for profit-making, but should be used for the benefit of the country as a whole.

Writing Slogans for Stars To Prove Absorbing Pastime

Writing slogans for motion picture stars bids fair to be the all-absorbing pastime in Atlanta for several weeks after The Constitution Masked Players contest gets under way next Monday at Loew's Grand theater. Each week for four weeks special films will be shown at Loew's Grand theater depicting 20 or more Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stars in interesting episodes. The stars will wear masks in these films and the object of the game is to guess the names of the players and write fitting slogans for them.

It is going to be a profitable pastime, too, for many people because The Constitution will offer more than $800 in prizes, the biggest total of awards ever offered here in this type of contest. The first prize itself is $125, the second $75, the third $50, the fourth $25 and there will be 196 others.

First Prize Winner.

First prize will go to the person who guesses correctly the names of the masked players and writes the best set of slogans. This is going to be "slogan writing," the popular sport hereabouts for several weeks. It's easy to write slogans. It requires no particular literary gift. No

Over 1000 Cities Laid Concrete Streets Last Year

The reason for this nation-wide popularity of concrete street pavement is the fact that it is the finest looking pavement money can buy, and gives greater service value per dollar than any other type.

training is necessary. Something that "fits" one of the stars said in a phrase or sentence is all that's necessary. Mary Pickford, for instance, is "America's sweetheart." For Charlie Chaplin there are a dozen such as "The Pie King," "Old Flat Feet," and so forth.

In the list of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stars who will appear in The Constitution Masked Players contest are some of the most popular actors and actresses in the world. Some have slogans and some have not. All are willing to change any present slogan they may have for a better one and the winner of The Constitution contest has opportunities ahead of becoming a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sub-title writer if the talent is developed.

Will Print Coupons.

Beginning Monday The Constitution will print a list of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stars and also will print the voting coupon to be used in naming the players in the first group to be run next week and for the slogans for these players.

There is no cost about the contest to the public. The coupons used in listing the players together with their suggested slogans and a check clipped from The Constitution and must be mailed to the Masked Players editor.

Twenty-Six Students of The Southern Shorthand and Business University Go To Positions With Big Firms

Mr. J. L. Nicholes Pays High Compliment To The Southern.

MANY NEW PUPILS ARE ENROLLING FOR WINTER TERM

Twenty-six more pupils of the Southern Business College have just obtained splendid positions with important firms.

And thus the reputation of this institution, as being the school that shows results, is sustained.

While the Employment Department is busy supplying the business men with stenographers, bookkeepers, cashiers and other clerical help the Registration Department is likewise active in the enrollment of new pupils. A list of those who have just gone out to positions and also the newly enrolled pupils, follow below.

BIG COMPLIMENT BY VISITOR.

Among the recent visitors to the Southern Business College was Mr. J. L. Nicholes, a resident of Atlanta more than thirty years ago, who is now representative of one of the largest manufacturers in the country, this business carrying him to all the large cities in the United States and foreign countries.

The immensity of the school, its superb equipment and general conduct, so forcefully impressed Mr. Nicholes that he has written to the management setting forth some points which will be exceedingly interesting to the people of Atlanta particularly, and to all young people who are planning to take Business Courses with a view to entering the Commercial World.

"Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 15, 1926.

"Mr. J. L. W. Arnold, Pres.,

"Southern Shorthand & Business University,

"Atlanta, Ga.

"Dear Mr. Arnold:

"Thirty-five years ago I started out to hunt work. After being turned down by a score or more of employers, I entered a large business establishment, and the following is about the conversation that occurred:

"'I am hunting work.' 'What can you do?' 'Almost anything.' The gentleman addressed was the late Mr. H. L. Atwater, then of the Standard Wagon Company. He adjusted his spectacles and looked me over. 'Well,' said he, 'we do not use those who can do most of anything. We want a stenographer, we want a stenographer; if we want a salesman, we want a salesman; if we want a porter, we want a porter.' He then gave me the tip. A man who can do almost anything is not good for much.

"I immediately took a course of Shorthand and Typewriting from the Southern Shorthand and Business University. As soon as I received my diploma, I called on Mr. Atwater, and I will again repeat the conversation.

"'I am hunting work.' 'Well, what can you do?' 'I am a stenographer and Typist.' I recalled to him our first conversation and told him it was the tip he then gave that caused me to learn Shorthand, and I had come back to get the job. He laughed in his genial way, took my hand and said, 'You shall have the job.' I got it and held it down for a long time.

"It was with great pleasure and astonishment a day or two ago that I was shown over your magnificent institution that had evolved from the little school of thirty-five years ago, and I can truthfully say that in my travels all over the United States, having visited many institutions of like character, none have come under my observation that will in any way compare with the Southern Shorthand and Business University of Atlanta.

"In our immediate family there is a judge, a court reporter, an architect and a contractor, and each one started out in life as a stenographer. It is the best stepping stone to big things of which I know. The individuality and characteristics of successful men are implanted in the system of a stenographer by close contact with the best business men of the age, and the knowledge of Shorthand is a legacy that can not be taken away.

"I shall always have a tender spot in my heart for the Southern Shorthand and Business University and my appreciation is unbounded.

"Yours very truly,

"J. L. NICHOLAS."

There are two points brought out in Mr. Nicholes' letter which are worthy of serious consideration.

SHORTHAND BEST STEPPING-STONE.

First, it is important in this day and time to specialize—the knowledge of Shorthand is the best known stepping-stone into the Business World.

THE SOUTHERN LEADS.

Secondly, Mr. Nicholes stated no other Business School of the many he has visited throughout America, will compare with the Southern Shorthand and Business University of Atlanta. This is, indeed, a strong statement, a great compliment to the Southern, but several other prominent people who travel extensively, have practically made similar statements.

THERE'S NO PLACE FOR THE "KNOW-NOTHING."

The man who merely knows how to drive a nail isn't a carpenter these days. Science has entered every occupation and found skillful ways of doing things that in former times were done slowly, laboriously and largely through the exercise of "main strength and awkwardness." The industries have but few places for the unskilled—and business has none. The king of the man of the woman who depends upon physical strength for subsistence is very rough and full of dangerous quagmires. These are facts

PORTER ACQUITTED OF RECEIVING FUNDS AFTER BANK FAILED

Athens, Ga., January 19.—(Special.)—S. B. Porter, formerly president of the Bishop Banking company, which failed several months ago, was acquitted of a charge of receiving deposits after the bank failed in Clarke superior court, which adjourned today. He was indicted jointly with Herbert Breedlove, formerly cashier of the bank. Breedlove and Porter and J. W. Smith also were indicted for bank wrecking. These cases were postponed until the April term of court. The cases were transferred to this county from Oconee county.

At the same term of court the cases against John J. Wilkins, formerly president of the Georgia National bank, Guaranty Trust corporation, and American State bank, which failed last April, were postponed until the April term. Wilkins is charged with embezzlement.

Judge Earl Cann, of Macon, who was named by Judge Blanton Fortson to hear the Wilkins cases, due to the local jurist's disqualification, heard a motion for postponement and granted it.

T.H.S. Beats Marietta, 63 to 15, To Lead Preps in Scoring

Boys' High Defeats Fulton, 33-20; Marist Trounces Commercial, 48-19; Bluebirds Win From Decatur In Prep League Competition.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Featured by large scores, the leaders in the prep basketball league held their respective positions after Tuesday's play was over. Each of the leading teams continued to show power, and when they begin to meet each other in the schedule the games will be very hard fought. Tech High again proved its strength in running up 63 points on Marietta High school.

Tech High made the largest score so far this season, winning from Marietta, by a score of 63 to 15. Boys' High had a fairly easy victory over Fulton, 33 to 20. Marist found that Commercial was not such a hard nut to crack, and won, 48 to 19. Coach Hodges' University Bluebirds, a great deal more experienced after their recent road trip, defeated Decatur, 37 to 15. G. M. A. was idle, and will be in action next Friday against Boys' High on the Henry Grady court.

Again it was the little Tubby Allen, peppery leader and forward of the Smithies, who showed his team the way to victory. Tubby played one of his best games, and rang up a total of 34 points during the game. Gilliam, at center, kept up his fine playing of last week, shooting 15 points, and was another factor in the Smithies' victory over Marietta. For the losers, Oliphant, at forward, put up a fine game, while Read, at guard, also played a good game. Coach Tolbert made quite a number of substitutions, and all of the men showed up well.

INDIANS SIGN BENGIE, YOUNG TEXAS STAR

BY IRWIN M. HOWE.

Why fond parents should tack "Adelphia" on to Ray in identifying Bengie, as long as he was born in Jacksonville, Texas, is a mystery, but here he comes into the big tent, Ray Adelphia Bengie, pitcher extraordinary of Tampico, Houston and Waco.

Bengie has been signed by Cleveland, which is natural, considering the close affiliation of Manager Speaker with the Lone Star commonwealth. Ray Adelphia is no ordinary chap. If he had been this probably would have passed him by but here is an athlete with four years in college and he won't attain his majority until the Indians have left the training camp next spring.

So far as can be figured Bengie started to play baseball when 13 years of age. That is pretty young, even for Texas, where they "hit the hay" as boys and wake up as men.

Bengie, according to his confession, was born April 22, 1905. Tradition has it that he could throw a lariat over the family cat when he was in the cradle and that he could curve a ball before he reached the withers of his trusty cow pony. As already noted, he first saw light at Jacksonville, not to be found on all maps. The family lately moved to Huntsville, where Ray passes his winters.

Bengie says he started to play amateur baseball officially in 1918 and continued through 1919. The family encouraged him in this for fear he would run away and join the army during the war. He has been "grown" enough for college in 1920 when, at the ripe age of 15, he buckled down to his scholastic duties at the University of Texas. As he did not leave the campus until 1924 it can easily be figured that he has had only one season of professional baseball. In that one season he was good enough to win one game in the major leagues. Ray reporting to the Indians September 16.

Apparently Cleveland scouts must have written something nice about the youngster as Tris Speaker plunked down $10,000 for the phenom, which is considerable for a 20-year-old prospect. Not only did Bengie win his first year in the American league but he made it emphatic by shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 0, in a glowing effort.

His first professional engagement was with the Houston club last spring. In the middle of the season he was loaned to Waco, in the Texas league, where he remained until he received transportation from Speaker and headed north.

So far as the records show Bengie is the only pitcher in the Texas league who has gone to the majors his first year out. Before he was signed by Houston he played at Tampico, Mexico, where he won 25 and lost three games in a semi-pro league. In college he won 24 games and lost 6, with a batting average ranging from .390 to .420.

Bengie's record in the Texas league last summer was 15 victories and 8 defeats and he was at no time connected with the strongest teams in the circuit.

He throws with his right arm and he also bats right. He is no giant in size but he is chunky enough for all purposes, standing 5 feet 10, and tipping the beam at 160 pounds; but just wait until he grows up.

NEW SOUTHERN LEAGUERS

EDWARD ALOYSIUS KENNA

Catcher, Nashville.

Born, San Francisco, Cal., September 19, 1901.

Yanks Making Many Changes

New York, January 19.—(P)—A renovated Yankee team will seek the American league pennant this year.

The powerful hitting machine which triumphed three seasons ago, has been rebuilt. Babe Ruth, prepared by indoor training to win back his home run laurels, will still be the main spring of the attack. Joe Dugan at third and Bob Meusel in the outfield are the only other veterans, exclusive of the pitching corps.

Roger Peckinpaugh and Everett Scott, shortstops, have passed from the fold. At short Huggins will display his new Salt Lake City star. Tony Lazzeri, another home run hitter extraordinary, Wally Pipp, first baseman, has been sold to the Reds—the niche he filled will be occupied by Lou Gehrig, one of the finds of last year.

Aaron Ward, second baseman, is on the market. The Yankees have been negotiating for Marty McManus of the Browns.

If they failed to get him or some other outstanding player, Mark Koenig will play second.

Outfield of 1925 will be kept intact. In addition to Ruth and Meusel, Huggins will have Earl Combs and Ben Paschal.

Schlang was supplanted as regular catcher last year by Benny Bengough, but Huggins is still dissatisfied with his receivers.

The Yankees will take many recruits south and Huggins is hopeful of finding pitchers among them. Hoyt and Shawkey are on the market. Jones, Shocker and Penneck will be retained.

NEWSPAPER MAN HANGS NAME ON ALABAMA U.

A Birmingham newspaper man bestowed the nickname "Crimson Tide," on University of Alabama's athletic teams. The crimson is easily explained. Alabama's jerseys are that color. The tide part was tacked on because in those days the team had all the power of an incoming tide in one game, only to ebb and be washed out in the next. For the past three years the tide has been in as Washington found out.

Sportively Speaking

by H. C. HAMILTON.

Wycoff to the Rescue.
Walk Miller Returns.
Commission on Job.

THEY tell us that the Georgia Tech team is going to be taken apart so that the injured something which is supposed to make it tick may be given a thorough investigation. The supposition is that it is inaccuracy at basket-shooting which sent the Tech cohorts back from the invasion of Tennessee and Kentucky with two defeats registered on their side of the ledger.

If our opinion is worth anything to you, gentle reader, the man who made that guess was right—absolutely right. And Tiny Hearn's inaccuracy is the greatest trouble of all, for he misses, or has been missing, shots he should sink.

TO REMEDY this defect it is proposed to send Doug Wycoff in somewhere, probably at center. Doug, they say, is a regular Annie Oakley with a basketball. If he is, it might be well to give him a chance at showing his stuff, for there has been a woeful lot of plain and fancy missing by the Tech tossers.

To place Wycoff on the Tech team will require considerable ponderous thought on the part of Coach Hansen. It would be difficult to take Hearn out of the lineup, for, even though he does not shoot with accuracy consistently, he still is invaluable at the tipoff, and he does shoot a lot of baskets. Chances are Wycoff will be used at forward. The plan now is to send him against North Carolina State Friday night at the Tech gymnasium.

WALK MILLER, the discoverer of the gimmick and owner of Tiger Flowers, the well-known African middleweight, is back in our midst with the intention of renewing old-time acquaintances. He brought the Tiger along from New York and will send the negro through his paces for the bout February 26 with Harry Greb. The middleweight championship of the world is at stake in this fracas and, of course, Tiger is going to beat the Pittsburgh windmill.

We didn't discuss the matter with Mr. Miller. We heard about his feelings through friends of the boxing manager, and they are that Tiger is going to win and be a champion.

THE new boxing commission is well aware of the mistakes the old ones committed and is trying to avoid them. Its members do know something about the boxing game, which will make it rather certain that poor bouts will not be permitted.

The commission already has been giving some thought to the matter of a striking appearance in Atlanta and practically has decided upon men who will be eligible in case the go is put forward by some promoter. The Atlanta public, while it is eager to see the native son in action, will be greatly disappointed if some set-up is procured to oppose W. L. Atlanta deserves better cards than bouts have averaged in this city, and it probably would support them handily were the good ones brought here. Enthusiasm over a sport requires first a knowledge of the best that is in it—an ability to speak knowingly of the subject. That is possible only when interest is kept alive by constant promotion and when the good points are brought out for exhibition.

M'TIGUE GETS NEW SHOT AT P. BERLENBACH

New York, January 19.—A bout for the light-heavyweight championship of the world between Paul Berlenbach, title holder, and Mike McTigue, challenger, on February 12 at Madison Square Garden, has been approved by the New York state boxing commission.

Tex Rickard will attempt, within the present week, to obtain Berlenbach's signature for the match, although the champion is somewhere in the south on a fishing trip, and is talking about taking a swing through the country to try his murderous left hand upon some heavyweights.

McTigue, who lost the title to Berlenbach in a slow bout less than a year ago, naturally is anxious to meet Paul in Tex Rickard's cauliflower patch, where a large outpouring of paying customers would certainly be in attendance. The Irishman's chances are considered negligible, but the commission has made up its collective minds that Mike is entitled to the bout.

Having defended his title only last month against Jack Delaney, the champion has nearly five months leeway before he need fight again in defense of his crown, under the rules of the commission. The latter is insistent, however, that Paul meet Mike, and is withholding from him its permission to box against heavyweights until after the McTigue bout.

What both Berlenbach and Rickard have in mind is a return bout with Jack Delaney out of doors next summer. This match would draw such a crowd that the new garden would be hopelessly inadequate. It would mean a fortune for the champion, and he is careful to do nothing that will jeopardize his chances.

A bout with Mike McTigue is hardly to be considered as placing the light-heavyweight title in jeopardy, so Berlenbach probably will mail the Irishman about for the benefit of the boxing commission and those fans who care to watch the performance.

Macon Team Seeking Revenge for Defeat By Atlantans in 1925

Pat Stephens Was Hero of Thrilling Contest That Went Into Extra Periods For Mercer's Only Defeat By Southern Aggregation.

Basketball fans of Atlanta will be treated to one of the best cage games of the local season tonight when the Mercer Bears and the Atlanta Athletic club meet at 8:30 o'clock on the Auburn avenue court. The game will be open to the public.

Mercer, with a record of five games won and three lost, brings to Atlanta one of the strongest basketball teams that has ever represented Mercer university. Four of those games were won on foreign soil against some of the strongest teams in the mid-western states. Loyola university, of Chicago; Michigan State, Marquette and Middle Tennessee Normal were the teams that Mercer defeated on the long road trip, and only Notre Dame, Northwestern and Vanderbilt were returned victors over the Bears.

Marquette, which gave the Tech Jackets such a strong battle last Tuesday afternoon, was handed a 32-to-20 defeat last Wednesday night in Macon, by Mercer.

Atlanta Athletic club and Mercer have been ancient rivals. The local team was the only southern opponent that Mercer lost to last year and that defeat came in the closing seconds of play when Pat Stephens sank a four shot that forced the game into five minutes of extra playing. Pat Stephens and a company kept up a constant last minute drive and ended the game with a 27-to-33 score against the Bears.

Mercer will seek revenge over the A. A. C. tonight. A veteran team will represent the Bears, with Smith and Heyward, forwards; Green, center, and Captain Dunn and Parks, at guards.

Coach Bean has been driving his charges harder than ever this week in preparation for the game tonight and hard scrimmages have been held every night.

The lineup of the Atlanta Athletic club will be Stephens and Bass at forwards; Captain Bennett, at center, with Singleton and Latimer at guards.

BEARS DETERMINED TO GAIN REVENGE.

Macon, Ga., January 19.—(Special).—Coach John King and his Bears will invade Atlanta Wednesday night for the purpose of fighting out to a finish with their old rivals, the Atlanta Athletic club. The Bears are on an edge for the fray. Well do they remember their bitter defeat to a finish with their old rivals last year.

With four of last year's S. I. A. A. champs gone, Coach King has had to build a new team, and from past indications they will offer a good fight tonight.

Suzanne Lenglen, has accustomed tennis fans in the south of France. Miss E. M. Green, of England, the American champion's first adversary, although no champion, plays a useful game of old style tennis. Today however she was simply smothered by Miss Wills' powerful driving. Miss Green succeeded in bringing only two love games. The English girl scored only eight points in each set for a total of 16 to Miss Wills' total of 50.

HELEN WILLS SETS PARISIAN STYLES

Paris, January 19.—(P)—Paris is merely not a glimpse of Helen Wills as she passed through on her way to the Riviera. An enterprising milliner in the Rue de Rivoli, however, proved a fast worker, she copied the American player's hat and is already displaying the "Helen Wills Toque."

Everyone present at the Saint Lazaire station when Miss Wills arrived from Havre marveled at the simplicity of the young tennis champion's costume. She wore a gray cloak, a black fur piece and scarf, a fancy glass head necklace was her only ornament.

The hat which caught the milliner's fancy was a little toque, fitting very closely, with only a suspicion of a brim, and devoid of trimming, unless a California university pin stuck in front would come under that category.

In the French model the pin is replaced by a fancy button.

Van Houten, stocky little guard, shooting a total of 17 points, while Williams, at center, followed him with 13 points. Corrigan, at forward, also played a good game for Marist, shooting 10 points. Coach Bean has turned out a strong squad this year, and it has won two hard games, from University and Commercial. Moret, at guard, and Colman, at forward, were best for Commercial.

Holding its lead throughout the game, Boys' High was not hard pushed to win from Fulton. All of the Boys' High men shot a goodly number of points, with Lewis, tall Boys' High center, and McGaughey, forward, each shooting eight points. The entire team played a good game and worked well together the entire time. Hughes and Moore, Fulton forwards, shot most of Fulton's points, each getting eight.

The entire University team made a good showing in the game with Decatur, at University, Thursday afternoon. All of Coach Hodges' men were working well and sinking their shots with regularity. The Bluebird squad has improved greatly in its last few games, and is much stronger than it was at the beginning of the season. Decatur has a pair of good forwards, but is poor on defense, and the University forwards had little trouble in breaking through and sinking their shots.

Another gun club will get into action today when the Officers' Gun club, at Fort McPherson holds its first weekly shoot at new traps just installed. The club was organized by Colonel Mathews.

For the first shoot invitations have been extended to members of the Atlanta and East Point clubs, so an unusually large number of guns probably will be shattering the atmosphere. The new traps are located on the grounds formerly known as Camp Jesup, to the rear of the old warehouse.

NEWSPAPER MAN HANGS NAME ON ALABAMA U.

A Birmingham newspaper man bestowed the nickname "Crimson Tide," on University of Alabama's athletic teams. The crimson is easily explained. Alabama's jerseys are that color. The tide part was tacked on because in those days the team had all the power of an incoming tide in one game, only to ebb and be washed out in the next. For the past three years the tide has been in as Washington found out.

Atlanta Pays Reverent Tribute to Gallant Leaders of Confederate Hosts

The glorious days of the old south and the stirring scenes of the civil war were lived over again at the state capitol Tuesday afternoon, when aged, gray-haired, tottering veterans of the Lost Cause, still clad in the uniforms they loved so well, joined with the daughters of the Confederacy, with school children and the citizens of Atlanta in honoring Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. This picture shows a group of the veterans, in characteristic attitude, listening to the address of Judge Frank Jenkins, of the Georgia court of appeals. To the rear of the veterans are a number of Daughters of the Confederacy, who sponsored the exercises.

YOUTH AND AGE PAY HOMAGE

sixties, seated in front, the occasion took on the nature of union between the heroic generation which is so fast passing from life, and the new generation coming on to carry forward the ideals of the south.

Judge Jenkins devoted the major portion of his speech to a masterly presentation of the true cause for which the south fought, and utterly refuted the stigma which some have accepted as truth, that the men of the Confederacy offered their lives in defense of the institution of slavery.

Faithfulness to Honor.

Declaring that it was necessary that the young generation in the south should know the truths of history as it affected their country, Judge Jenkins recapitulated the history of the United States prior to the secession of the southern states, and clearly showed that it was in defense of equal justice and of her own honor, that the south fought, and had not resisted, freedom and liberty would not be known in America today as they are.

Following Judge Jenkins' oration a musical program was given, and medals of honor were presented to the families of various veterans who have died.

In addition to the exercises in Atlanta, reports from over the state and the south show that in every city, town and hamlet, the memory of the two great leaders was honored some time during the day. In most places the two birthday anniversaries were combined in one celebration, as in Atlanta, where chosen orators eulogized the heroic dead, and kindly hands proved anew to the little groups of gray-clad survivors that their heroism is not forgotten, and that the things for which they fought are still held dear by their descendants.

State Offices Closed.

The state capitol was closed on Tuesday afternoon in honor of the day.

General William A. Wright, state comptroller general, also celebrated his own birthday on Tuesday. The aged state official was 82 years old, and marked the passing of another milestone in his life by spending a quiet day in his home on East Fifteenth street.

General Wright is the oldest Georgia official in point of service, having held the name office for close on fifty years, having been first elected in 1880, and serving since then without a break.

General Wright was born in Louisville, Ky., on January 19, 1844, and at the outbreak of the war, served as first lieutenant and ordnance officer under his father, General Ambrose Wright. At the battle of Sharpsburg, General Wright was struck by shrapnel that shattered his right leg above the knee. Despite the fact that army surgeons found it necessary to amputate his leg, the young lieutenant returned to his command after the wound had healed and served throughout the remainder of the war.

W. & L. UNIVERSITY FETES BIRTHDAY.

Lexington, Va., January 19.—(AP.) Our great nation is facing destruction, not by civil war, nor by aggression of foreign foe, but by the dangers and temptations of prosperity, declared President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton university, in addressing the students' faculty, and townspeople at Founder's day services of Washington and Lee university, being held here today in connection with the birthday of General Robert E. Lee.

The hope of our country lies in the future generations, who should be taught that "civilization is not founded on material prosperity, but upon the pursuit of the pleasures and the creative achievements of the mind, upon integrity of character and spiritual insight and aspiration." Such were the qualities by which General Lee lived and which are today needed in our country.

Our responsibilities.

Our responsibilities as guardians are a sacred trust, not only to the young men who knock at our doors for education, but to this nation and the civilization of the world, and be added: "You here under the spell of the memory of Washington, or Lee, and of Stonewall Jackson, are peculiarly fitted to contribute year after year something of permanent value in realizing this high ideal."

In sounding his warning, the speaker gave a comment written by an Englishman who once lived in America. It was: "As I watch the American nation speeding daily with invincible optimism down the road of destruction, I seem to be contemplating the greatest tragedy in the history of mankind."

"These words were written not in a vein of contemptuous criticism, but of warning, and of challenge to the thoughtful men and women of our nation. It would be a tragedy indeed if our nation, after its comparatively few years of history, after all the endurance and sufferings and sacrifice which have made us great; after possession heaped upon possession; wealth and power of the whole world tributary to our comfort and our power, we should at last be submerged in the wreck of the most promising civilization the world has ever known."

We must train and care for the youth of the land, and this message comes as a challenge to those who have neglected their opportunities and those of their children.

ALL DIXIE HONORS CONFEDERATE LEADER.

Richmond, Va., January 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dixie stood today with bared head in reverent tribute to the memory of her venerated hero and idol, General Robert E. Lee. During the day, exercises were held in the schools and in the homes of most of the state capitals, the stars and bars of the Confederacy was flown.

From the Potomac to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Atlantic ocean to the Mississippi river, comprising what is roughly known as the "old south," observance of the day was general. In many states, formal ceremonies were held. In others, the day was observed more quietly, such exercises as were held being staged in the schools.

In practically every southern state, today is a legal holiday, banks and state, county and municipal government offices being closed. From the flagpoles of most of the state capitals, the stars and bars of the Confederacy was flown.

Joint Celebration.

For the first time, the joint observance of the birthday anniversaries of Lee and General Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson was general. Jackson's anniversary is Thursday.

The keynote exercises of the day were held in Lexington, Va., where, under designation of "founder's day," Washington and Lee university honored its one-time president. The principal eulogy of the ceremonies was delivered by Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton university. In Richmond, laying of the cornerstone of the world war memorial was made the occasion for tribute to General Lee.

Banks in North Carolina were closed in honor of the day while exercises were held in practically every school in the state. All state offices were closed.

Napier Speaks.

The South Carolina legislature met in joint session tonight to hear George M. Napier, attorney general of Georgia, deliver the principal address on General Lee. During the day, exercises were held in the schools and efforts sped up in the sale of Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial half dollars.

Georgia's tribute was general, with prearranged programs in most of the larger cities and towns. The principal observance was in the state capitol in Atlanta, when survivors of the "lost cause" were given seats of honor at exercises conducted by the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Banks also were closed throughout the state.

Florida schools planned exercises in observance of the holiday, but nothing of a general nature was to be held.

Lee's birthday is a legal holiday in Alabama and banks throughout the state were closed, while exercises were held in the schools.

A reception and memorial service at the governor's mansion in Jackson featured Mississippi's tribute to the southern leader. These were held under auspices of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and United Confederate Veterans were guests of honor.

A joint memorial service in New Orleans by all chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy marked the observance in Louisiana. Crosses of Honor were awarded at this session. Similar services were held throughout the state.

A public memorial service in Nashville at the new War Memorial building was the principal observance in Tennessee. This service was conducted by United Daughters of the Confederacy and United Confederate Veterans and Crosses of Honor were awarded surviving veterans and their descendants.

Unveiling of a portrait of General Wright, noted Confederate of Eldorado, was the feature of Arkansas' tribute to General Lee. His ideals and his life were extolled at the unveiling. The day is a legal holiday in Arkansas and banks and state offices were closed.

ROMANS HONOR GENERAL LEE.

Rome, Ga., January 19.—(Special.) An address by Rev. H. F. Joyner, pastor of Maple Street Baptist church, this morning, appropriate programs in all classrooms of the public school system, closing of the banks and a memorial service at Carnegie library hall this afternoon under the auspices of United Daughters of the Confederacy featured the celebration of the birthday of General Robert E. Lee at Rome. This city joined the rest of the southland in rekindling the memory of the commander-in-chief of the army of the Confederate States of America.

Civic Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Fifth Ward Civic club will be held in the auditorium of the English Avenue school Thursday, January 21, at 7:30 p. m. The ward representatives will be present, and make short talks and T. H. Buckalew, president, urges a good attendance. Refreshments will be served.

If Over 40 Years Old You Need This

If you are past 40 your vital organs are slowing up and metabolic poisons accumulate in your system. Keep your bowels and stomach active with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc. (known as Adierika). W. Carter, a man of 60, states that a few doses made him feel better than for years.

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleansing with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as sold under the name of Adierika. This acts on BOWEL upper and lower bowels, eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc.

Whenever you eat too much heavy food, let Adierika REMOVE the indigestible surplus and leave you feeling fine. GNS spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adierika brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble. Don't waste time with pills or tablets but let Adierika give your stomach and bowels QUICK relief.

What Doctors Say.

Dr. G. Eggers reports Adierika is the best medicine he has used in 37 years.

Dr. W. H. Bernhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adierika.

Dr. J. Z. Weaver, a doctor for 50 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adierika.

To Give Your Gums a Healthy Coral Tint

and restore "off-color" teeth to clearness

Accept full 10-day tube of this new way, widely urged by dental authorities. Note the great change in the color of your teeth as dingy film clears off and note the increasing gum firmness.

IT'S been learned that teeth are seldom naturally off color, clouded or dull, but simply coated with a dingy film your present cleansing method does not clear off successfully.

Modern dental science now has discovered a way to remove that film. Results in restoring teeth to clearness quickly and in firming tender gums are surprising. One's whole appearance is thus often changed.

Send coupon for full 10-day tube to try. In a short time you can work a transformation on your teeth. Their natural lustre is probably just film-hidden.

What film is—Dulls teeth, invites gum disorders

Dental science now traces scores of tooth and gum troubles to a germ-laden film that forms on teeth. Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it—a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color," dingy, and unattractive.

FILM the worst enemy to teeth

You can feel it with your tongue

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack and your teeth open to decay. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea.

Old ways won't clear it off

Ordinary dentifrices and cleansing won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other.

Largely on dental advice, the world has turned to this method.

Clears film off—Firms the Gums

It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes that film, then firms the gums.

A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt. Send the coupon. Clip it now before you forget, and mail at once.

FREE Mail Coupon for 10-Day Tube to The Pepsodent Company Sec. A-2100, 1104 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

TWO CHARMING JUNIOR LEAGUE GIRLS PLAN SPRING WEDDINGS

Archaeology Studied by the Fair; Befuddled Swain Forgets Card; Lovely Mouth Tells Character

BY BEVERLY BURGESS.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—but why go on?

You know what the spring does to the young and the not so young! Both classes come in the story we are about to tell you of two of Atlanta's most charming couples.

Two prospective weddings for "in the spring!"

Two of Atlanta's very loveliest girls in the college, or rather, near college set, are to be married to two of Atlanta's most prominent young business men.

This isn't a "guess who" story—not guilty—but you really should be prepared for this wonderful news which is to be given to the world shortly. All four of these young people are your friends and were born and bred in your midst. And what is still nicer, Atlanta is still to retain the title after Dan Cupid puts this transaction through.

Such is rarely the case, you know. Too often have we lost heavily in matrimonial transactions. Both of these brides-elect are Junior League members having been conspicuous on the brilliant programs of the league in past years. One girl has to be written with "ex" and the other "sub" before the bright title "debutante" with the prospects growing dimmer daily as for the sub one ever coming into her own as touching this state of being.

However like unto one of the January brides of the next few days she feels that there really is a title holding more genuine value for her than that of "debutante." One of these Atlanta brides-to-be has glorious coloring of the type which Titian loved so, while the other one is beautiful in the richness of the Creole coloring. Both girls have had every advantage which wealth and position could give them. Glad we are in deed that we don't have to relinquish them to the society ranks of some sister city, north, east, south or west.

As for the grooms-elect, if I were to tell you the first detail of either you would put your finger on him immediately.

However, this much you shall be told, both young men have finished school and are established in their chosen field of endeavor, and besides have a place in the socially-erect in which to take their fair young brides into.

That's all—of this—for today.

"The Every Saturday."

In this town there is a delightful grouping of women, banded together for cultural purposes, known as the "Every Saturday History Class."

They occupy their own place in Atlanta society and this is an enviable one, indeed!

Names on this roster have a significant outstanding in all social and cultural activities.

This year the subject which is engrossing their attention is that of "Archaeology."

On Saturday one of their most charming members, Emma Bowie Gonzales, one of the group of Bowie sisters known for their great beauty, both collectively and individually, in the social life of Atlanta, is entertaining this body of prominent women at a luncheon at her apartment on Ponce de Leon.

Not only is Mrs. Gonzales to be the gracious hostess, which she never fails in being on all occasions, but also she is to give the talk of the morning. Always a getting-together of these "Every Saturdayers" means a day of delight and great pleasure to all fortunate enough to be included.

Saturday will hold a bright meeting for these charming members of the Every Saturday History class.

Hopelessly Lost.

What do you think of a boy who is so hopelessly in love that he forgets to write his name on his important document and a card sent in a box of roses to the fairest girl in all the world?

I know of one like that. He is all befuddled. He really doesn't know what it all is about.

And this after priding himself for years—a rather youngish-old bachelor—is he—on his Rudolph Valentino, "No woman's worth it" attitude!

Recently "the fairest girl in all the world" had absolutely to go to the sweetheart of a certain boy's brother and ask: "Will you try to find out for me if Dan E. sent me a box of flowers this afternoon? I am really terribly embarrassed. Three Duns there are that I go with and I am so afraid I will think the wrong one for this lovely box of roses."

If you could only see this charming girl you would not be surprised that the Valentino stuff went up in smoke when he "met her."

However, it would be undoubtedly wise for said young man to get back to normalcy—sufficient to write his name in full as otherwise some of the numerous rival Duns might get credit where it did not belong and probably thereby win the girl on the merit of his wooing.

Be wary young man and look to your laurels.

A Lovely Mouth.

And speaking in this special particular and after having called on girl's name in that last reference and with perfect irrelevance—(?)—I want to ask, "Have you ever seen anything in the world as charming as the mouth of Louella Everett?"

Not only is it beautiful to behold but is LARGE and always wide open! Never have I seen her when every tooth of which she is possessed isn't in evidence! But they are also a joy to behold, every one perfect and looking like a row of carefully selected pearls!

At the Pi Pi dance one of Atlanta's choice beaux was sitting for the nonce talking to the chaperones when Louella Everett possessed and its attendant characteristics! She will—or—could—cash it in some day for a cool million!

Another in the group of admirers added "One would be safe in staking his last dollar on that girl's shining out in life's race above many another!"

No truer dial on earth is there than the one on which the ego of humanity inscribes its tellings!

MONTE CARLO

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Reg. U. S. Patent Office.

SYNOPSIS.

Sir Hargrave, a country gentleman and financier, calls on a famous London physician for examination. The doctor tells him he cannot live for more than six or eight months. Hargrave takes the blow standing, and decides to go on with his plans for the winter as though nothing had happened. He feels, however, an urge to give a lift to some poor fellow creature. His experiments on the people he comes in contact with until he finds one who is in need of help. This one proves to be a delicate-looking man, a girl, Violet Martin, who serves him regularly. He offers her a number of her family's vacation of two months at his villa at Monte Carlo. Not having any family, Violet induces her fiancé, Robert, to come as her brother and come with her. Their host gives them a free rein in Monte Carlo, and they enjoy themselves to the fullest extent.

Wendover's London cronies—the Rev. Philip Gorse, John Marston, his financial adviser, and Lord Pellingham—arrive at Monte Carlo. Wendover gives a supper party at the Casino, and among his guests is the Princess Putzika, a great beauty to whom he has paid marked attention. The princess is in love with Hargrave. While the party is in progress, Robert, who is not of a distinguished family, is another part of the café, and is forcibly ejected.

The boy has evidently been drinking too much and he quarrels with his host, telling him that Violet is his fiancée, and not his sister. Violet tells Robert she does not love him and is no longer engaged to him.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

Violet's Folly.

Robert was touched by Hargrave's generosity. "I don't know why you're so good to us, sir," he said, with a little catch in his voice. "You needn't bother about that," Hargrave told him. "I have more money than any man ought to have, and the little I can do for you young people doesn't count. It just came my way. There is one thing more: I understand your engagement with Violet is broken." "Serve me right sir," the young man acknowledged. Hargrave hesitated. He was watching his companion closely. "I'm afraid you will find it difficult to reestablish yourself so far as Violet is concerned," he said. "I know that, sir," he admitted. "Violet's fed up with me and I don't wonder at it. She always was too good for me," he added with a little burst of candor. "I think we'll get on better as pals now." "I'm glad," Hargrave confessed, "to find that you are so sensible. That ends our little talk, then." The curtains were thrown back. The butler appeared with a little bow. "Monsieur est servi," he announced, as Violet entered the room. At luncheon it seemed to both of them that Hargrave seemed more thoroughly than on any previous occasion. That curious air of aloofness, almost of reserve, which even Violet had found at times depressing, had in large measure vanished. He talked to them both with perfect naturalness, asking Robert in particular questions as to the nature and scope of his employment and his desires for the future. Violet joined in now and then, but of direct conversation between her and Hargrave there was very little. Nevertheless, since the crisis of the night, since the morning in the mountains, a swiftly born change was already showing itself, a new, although more subdued, happiness seemed to be rapidly transforming her from a light-hearted girl into a woman of poise and vivacity. Robert, listening to her a little jealously, found himself more than once surprised. She had definitely, as it seemed, left his world, without trouble or effort. Already these other two—Hargrave and Violet—seemed to be finding a common language, some understanding from which he seemed barred. He spoke to her about it while Hargrave had left them temporarily to answer the earnest solicitations of a would-be hostess upon the telephone. "What has happened between you and Sir Hargrave, Violet?" he asked, a little suspiciously. "You seem on different terms somehow." "I dare say we do," she admitted. "Nothing much has happened, except that I started for London this morning and he came after me and brought me back." "Because of last night?" she asked. "Because of last night," she assented. He leaned back in his chair, and frowned. "I suppose really," he said, "it is I who ought to have cleared out." "The whole matter is finished," she told him. "Don't bring it up again. On the whole, it is perhaps for the best." "You mean you are glad to have had an opportunity of chucking me," he grumbled. "That is not a man's speech, Robert," she answered. "You and I both know it is you who have chucked me. You left me alone day after day to spend my time anyhow, with any one, while you spent yours with Mademoiselle Zelle and any one else who happened to amuse you. It wasn't a fair bargain, Robert. That is why I was glad of an opportunity of ending it." "I got what I deserved, I suppose," he admitted. "But Violet—" "Well?" "You're not going to be idiot enough to fall in love with Sir Hargrave, are you?" She listened for a moment. In the distance they could hear the conversation at the telephone still proceeding. She leaned across the table. There was a defiant expression in her face. "This is a matter, Robert," she said, "upon which there need be no misunderstanding between us. I think I have been in love with him all the time. Last night I was sure of it; this morning I was more than ever convinced. I haven't a chance, I know. I can't compete with all these other women of his world. Still, you asked me a question and I have told you the truth."

"You're a fool," he declared, shortly. "I know it," she answered, "but at least no one else will pay for my folly." Robert gulped down his coffee. The pathos of the situation, as he saw it, penetrated his selfishness, even touched his heart. "I'm awfully sorry, old girl," he said. "I think you'd better let me take you back to London."

She laughed at him softly. He was surprised at the new strength and sweetness in her face. "That's nice of you, Robert," she admitted, "but you don't understand."

In the distance they could hear Hargrave's reluctant voice. "Very well then, at half past three," Violet indulged in a little grudge. Andrea Trentino, fellow passenger with Mr. Daniel Wegges, wife and daughter, from New York, entered the salon of the little suite which had been allotted to him at the Hotel de Paris, with his usual deliberate gait, kissed the fingers of the woman who awaited him—the Marchesa di Bonini—with the full measure of that gallantry which came to him as an inheritance, and he held her for a moment in his arms.

"André," she exclaimed, "What ages you have been away!" He gently disengaged himself and stood apart looking at her intently. "Andrea," she confided, "that man Hargrave Wendover is a rock. I have indeed tried my best." "His interjection was little more than an indrawn breath. She felt, however, the full measure of its reproach. "You must not blame me, Andrea," she went on, as she sat by his side on a divan and caressed his delicate looking white hand. "I did what I could. You see, he is an ordinary man. It seems as though he has only to lift his finger for any woman in this place to do his bidding. What had I to offer?" "Women are sometimes wonderful in that way," he remarked, slowly. "The woman who could move Hargrave Wendover against his will must possess gifts which I then lack," she declared, sorrowfully. "I led him to hope for everything. He quite well understood that, although he was too polite to admit it. It was useless." "You weren't at the boat," he said, after a moment's pause—"neither you nor Hobson." "My dear Andrea," she reminded him, "you came in eight hours before me. I saw the ship from my window as I dressed, and I hastened here as quickly as I could." ## The GILDED ROSE

—BY— MAY CHRISTIE

Soon after, Landis meets Lydia and while riding with her refuses to comment whether or not his wife "goes her own way," as he quite evidently does.

CHAPTER NO. 45

"I love you all the more for being loyal, Landis," Lydia edged nearer him, looking up into his handsome, moody face. "Loyal?" He gave a short, harsh laugh. "I wouldn't call it that. I feel—a cad—often. Disloyal to Rosilyn. Unfair to you. And yet—it's hard—so hard."

She snuggled closer, forgetting for the moment the glories of her brand-new gown. "Let's go on drifting, and never mind tomorrow. Introspection's fatal to happiness. And today we're going to be amazingly happy, you and I."

Her voice was low and full of sweetness. The car sped on, and soon New York was left behind. They were out in the open country, which never had looked lovelier. Buttercups and daisies dotted the green fields, and as they neared their destination, masses of rhododendrons, red, white and purple, edged the road.

Under a sky of delicate blue flaked with snowy little cloudlets, the coarse and lawns of the rendezvous were a veritable dream of beauty. Women's exquisite toilettes in every tint imaginable formed a kaleidoscope of color, changing as they moved hither and thither on the greenward.

Smart men, flowers in their button-holes, were escorts to these lovely women. "Isn't it heavenly?" breathed Lydia, as she and Landis strolled across the lawns. This was her metier—the life she loved.

A cloud came upon Landis' former mood of gaiety. The gorgeous toilettes all about him brought—sharp contrast to his memory the picture of a small, pale girl with wistful eyes who had lavished money generously upon him—the girl whom he had left at home, all heedless of her happiness.

She had been very simply dressed, that girl, and yet never had she looked so appealing as when she had—de good-bye to him, and told him—with that wistful, little smile of hers that held such a mystery—how much she hoped he would enjoy himself, and that he wasn't to hurry back on her account.

"You wouldn't care to go to the races?" he had said, tentatively, and at the same time wondering what on earth he should do if she accepted. "No, thank you," she had answered, the little smile in evidence, but the mystery deepening in her really lovely eyes. "I shouldn't do you credit, Landis. All the beauties will be there and all the Paris gowns. I'd be awfully out of place, I can assure you."

"You'd be like a sweet little moss rose among the tigerlilies and the orchids!" She had laughed and flushed at that. "The tigerlilies and the orchids are more suitable in any case. So please excuse me, and enjoy yourself."

Lydia chattered at his side. Every now and then, friends and acquaintances stopped them for a word or two. Gny badinage was all about them. "And where's the bride?" he was asked several times. "Down at our country place. One or other of us has to be always there just now, until the decorations are complete."

"Let's get over to the stand! I'm sick of these horses!" commanded Landis, steering Lydia away. They found their seats in the big chocolate and cream decorated structure, with its hanging baskets of flowers.

It took Lydia quite 15 minutes for her most persuasive efforts to coax her escort back to sunniness. Later, they were at luncheon, and some wine Landis had brought with him made Lydia gayer than ever. "To our future!" She tilted up her glass. Landis hesitated to respond. That chagrined her. "Won't you drink with me?" she cooed, very gently. There was a moment's pause, and then he said, gruffly: "It strikes me that some of you women are drinking a lot more than you used to do. Go easy, Lydia!" Her eyes flung a laughing challenge at him. "Old sobersides!" "It's true," persisted he. His glance roamed to a nearby table, where a party of young girls were tugging highballs. "Debutantes!" "Oh, don't be stuffy!" Lydia drained her glass, and then filled it again with Veuve Cluquot. "Haven't we both had lots of luck already? You won quite a good bit, Landis."

Money! Bitterly ashamed of the part that he had played, he felt a cad because of his resentment towards his mother, who no doubt had acted—as she thought—in her son's best interest. "They finished lunch. It was hot in the marquee, and he suggested getting outside for a breath of air. They went into the paddock. Lydia was chattering gaily when

DETECTIVES PROBE STORY OF INJURY TOLD BY GREGORY

Detectives Tuesday were probing the story told by S. C. Gregory, of 1030 Marietta street, who was carried to Grady Monday night suffering from knife wounds, one a serious stab in the left thigh. Gregory, who at first refused to give his name, was found weakened from the loss of blood and in a dazed condition on Johns street, at the railroad crossing. He was taken to Grady in a private ambulance where he said that he had been attacked by several negroes. His family live in Chatsworth, he told police.

Lydia gazed. "Look, Landis! See that woman!" "I'm looking at her escort. Don't you recognize him?" "Who? What?" The sun was in Lydia's eyes for a moment as she peered round at the porky figure a pace or two behind the charmer. Then her gaze widened. "Heavens! It's not Steve Van Vorst, is it? It can't be! He's in Paris!" "It's none other," Landis was looking down at her with a little quizzical twist to his lips. Tomorrow—A Ripped Afternoon. (Copyright, 1928, for The Constitution.)

A Rose or a Gilded Radiator.

"Twelve years of rush, twelve years of tenness, and now at the age of twenty-four, I am busted out," writes a correspondent.

"I entered high school at twelve and graduated at sixteen with an average of 95 for the four years work. Then I entered business school and started out as a stenographer. I computed seven miles daily for two and a half years. My boss was a fast dictator. The result was that I ended my day shaking like a leaf.

"Now I find myself a nervous wreck with a ten-month-old child on my hands.

"My husband is a big, husky fellow with as clean a mind, body and character as can be found. His disposition and character are what I want reproduced in my child. My husband loves the farm. He hates the shame, dirt and immoral life led by some of his fellow-workers in the city.

"Now to the question. My parents still own their homestead and we want to go back and farm it. Everybody opposes it. They say a farm means drudgery, no money and no luxuries. If we go back to the homestead my husband would be doing the work he enjoys and I would lose my nervousness. I would no longer have to keep up appearances.

"I could raise my boy in a place where he could play without being a nuisance to the neighbors; in a place where the neighbors were friendly without trying to go you one better in clothes, furnishings, etc.

"Back to the homestead where I want to go. I could go riding, fishing, out in the snow and rain because I would be dressed for it without caring the rain would spoil my hat, dress or satin pumps. What sayest thou?"

"WEARY."

You have answered your own problem. What you really ask of me is an endorsement.

I do not see why you should sell out the only life you will have on earth for a bathtub and steam heat. A gilded radiator and a "keeping up with Lizzie" existence are no compensation for health, strength, a simple home life, wholesome neighbors, a bit of pleasure, a chance to ramble and the opportunity of living with the birds and flowers.

As you said, "to others such a life looks drab and colorless." To me it reveals many beautiful and colorful things. I have never been lonely myself, watching the birds and squirrels and listening to the murmuring of my beloved pines.

I say go back to the homestead.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

My child cries at the least provocation. In fact she cries when there isn't anything to cry about. What shall I do?

DISTRACTED.

Answer—I wish you had told me something about the state of her health and incidents which lead up to her crying. Perhaps she cries because by so doing she gets what she wants. I am enclosing a leaflet on "The Crying Child." And I have added one on "Tantrums." It may be that you should mix these two doses.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER—PA IS A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

Dear Reader:

Of course by now you know that our mutual friend Michael Mulligan is engaged in the business of bootlegging, even though he has camouflaged it by calling it interior decoration.

Winnie and her mother think Mike decorates the interior of homes, but old Rip Winkle and many others are all wise to the kind of interiors he really decorates.

When Winnie wanted to know the idea of dealing in bottled goods, Mike explained that he sold a furniture polish in conjunction with his decorating business. There may be more truth than fiction in this, but just the same we think it's a shame that a sweet girl like Winnie should be kept in ignorance of the truth—don't you?

SEA BATHS.

The very neurotic woman is seldom pretty, she's usually too thin or too tired, or too run down to be attractive. However, there is one thing she can do to improve her looks and her general health: take sea baths.

Of course, if she can get into the ocean, that's the very thing for her. The exercise of swimming or even jumping around in the waves, and reacting to hot sun and cool water, will do her an immense amount of good, but if she can't, she can take either hot or cold sea water baths in her own bath tub, and gain a great deal of good thereby. For one thing, it is bound to give her a perfect complexion, and what woman doesn't want that?

Buy large bags of sea salt. These are quite cheap at every drug store or drug department in any large store sells them. The average cost is about a cent a bath, two cents if you like the water very salty indeed. Not much, is it? You can make up a sea salt which will give you something like real ocean water, but I do not see why you should go to that bother when you can buy the real sea salt so cheaply.

One or two large handfuls goes into the tub. The way to test the bath, by the way, is to taste it; then you can judge whether you have it salty enough or not. If you have it hot, so much the better if you are nervous. Your skin will absorb more and your health benefit by the salt your pores take up. You will not know it all over. Incidentally, you know, you take up a lot of the iodine which sea water contains, and which guards against goitre.

If you want stimulation only, take your sea water bath cool or cold. And if you want a glowing reaction, exercise vigorously until you are quite hot, then take a quick, fairly cool sea water bath and rub down as hard as you can with a coarse Turkish towel.

other; the real beauty lies in the vitality it shows as it will then have natural gloss to it, regardless of what color it may be.

Embarrassed Miss—Extract the coarse and dark hairs with tweezers whenever they show above the skin, and bleach the rest with peroxide if there is any trace of color to make them conspicuous. You may have to do this every few weeks, but it will keep your skin cleared of the hair. Tomorrow—Bringing Out a Feature.

Edna Kent Forbes is now ready to fill a long-felt need on the part of her readers—that of supplying the most important of her excellent beauty hints in illustrated pamphlet form. To secure this valuable information you must address Miss Forbes in care of The Atlanta Constitution, asking for her pamphlet, "Beauty," and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope (s. a. s. e.) and ten cents in stamps.

STIR AND BRIDE REACH SAVANNAH AFTER HONEYMOON

Savannah, Ga., January 19.—(P)—Young (W. L.) Stribling and his bride, who before her marriage last month was Miss Clara Virginia Kinney, of Macon, stepped down the gangplank from the steamship City of Chattanooga here this morning, after three enjoyable days at sea on their return honeymoon trip from the east.

The Georgia peach is the guest of relatives here—Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Mead.

A large delegation of friends greeted the couple this morning waiting on the docks during the two-hour delay in landing.

From Savannah the young couple will go to Thomasville, where they will join the young man's family, gathered for a dove shoot.

Swainsboro Kiwanians Pledge Their Aid To Walker's Program

Swainsboro, Ga., January 19.—(Special).—The Swainsboro Kiwanis club unanimously voted upon a resolution endorsing the call of the extraordinary session of the legislature by Governor Walker at a meeting to-day.

The resolution put the club on record as favoring each of the three things named by the governor to be presented to the legislature, a state issue of bonds for paved roads, bonds to put educational institutions on a sound financial basis, and to pay Confederate veterans' pensions. It also urged all citizens to support the governor and the legislature.

FLOURNOY ESTATE TAX CONFERENCE IS HELD

Attorneys from Louisville, Ky., met Tuesday with representatives of the state of Georgia in the attorney general's office, in an effort to advance a settlement of the dispute between the two states as to which shall collect inheritance taxes due from the estate of the late T. J. Flournoy, Rock art banker and cement manufacturer.

Kentucky is claiming that Mr. Flournoy was a citizen of that state and that they are, therefore, due the inheritance taxes which amount, under the Kentucky law, to approximately $65,000. Georgia, on the other hand, claims that he was a citizen of this state, and that about $48,000 is due Georgia as inheritance taxes. These also, it is understood, about $150,000 in back ad valorem taxes which have not been paid to the state.

In support of its claims, Kentucky has advanced an application sent by Mr. Flournoy to Washington for a United States passport, in which he stated that he was a citizen. Kentucky, Georgia, however, has produced affidavits for 10 years before Mr. Flournoy's death in which he declares himself to be a Georgia citizen in reports to the Federal Reserve bank concerning the Rockmart bank of which he was a director.

Georgia also introduced as evidence a power of attorney, issued to a representative in Kentucky by Mr. Flournoy, in which he sets forth that his place of residence and citizenship is in Georgia.

Georgia was represented at the conference Tuesday by T. R. Gross, assistant attorney general; James H. Dozier, state tax commissioner, and Ed Maddox, of Rome, special attorney.

ATLANTA'S YEAR 'ROUND CLIMATE

~ is unsurpassed in AMERICA

ATLANTA is the second highest large city east of the Rocky Mountains. The foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains surround the city on all sides, affording one of the most delightful year-round climates to be found in the United States. Atlanta is located in latitude 33 degrees and 45 minutes, north; longitude 84 degrees and 23 minutes, west, at an altitude of 1,050 feet above sea level. Atlanta is relieved of the humidity that causes suffering in many southern cities, and at the same time her low latitude assures her against extremes of cold in the winter season. Abundant water supply, evenly distributed rainfall, and the high altitude all contribute to making Atlanta one of the healthiest cities in America. The mean annual temperature is 61 degrees. The mean summer temperature is 77 degrees. The normal rainfall in Atlanta for a period of 55 years is 49.30 inches.

Climate is one of the basic requisites to any satisfactory condition of life. It is little appreciated, where it is favorable. Atlanta has never fully realized how great an asset she has in the marvelous month-to-month climate which is hers. People are spending millions of dollars every month of every year in pursuit of a healthful climate. Atlantans only seek a better climate when they are abnormal and are sent by their physicians to some point for particular reasons. Our winters are warmed with our genial sunshine. Our summers are made pleasant by the constant winds that play from hill to hill. Flowers and vegetable gardens grow in the open in Atlanta from January to January. Atlanta's climate is an all-year climate.

Work of every sort is conducted in Atlanta every month of the year. It is rare for a winter day to be too cold for men to work in the open. Contractors do not take the seasons into account in planning their construction work in Atlanta. Every day is a working day. It is an equable climate with gradual temperature changes in seasons. Many claims have been made concerning climatic conditions in the resort areas of California and Florida, but no section of the country offers a finer combination of bracing and invigorating temperatures on the one hand and genial and delightful summer weather on the other. Neither of the extremes are ever reached by Atlanta weather, which is only another way of saying that we have the sort of climate in which people delight to live.

Such a climate is favorable to the larger industrial movement which is now headed Southward. Labor conditions are bound to be favorable in Atlanta for the reason that the people are healthy. They get enough sunshine without being enervated by torrid temperatures of tropical zones. Transportation is never impeded in anywise by climatic conditions in Atlanta. Large roofs are never taxed with snowfall. Moisture is constant at all seasons. Ample rainfall insures against the hazards of abnormal fire losses. In other words, Atlanta offers a climate which is at once one of the great assets for the individual, the family, the industry, the school, and every other phase of normal life.
